

General Terms and Conditions for the Sale of Packaging

Applicable in business transactions with companies, legal persons under public law, and special public funds. Consumers are not permitted to place purchase orders.

1. General provisions

- 1.1 The general terms and conditions of sale set out in this document (hereinafter: "Conditions of Sale") apply to all sales of packaging and packaging material between IPS Lamersdorf GmbH (hereinafter: "IPS") and the customer, including the supply of corrugated and solid board packaging, amongst other things (packaging, packaging material, and corrugated and solid board packaging hereinafter collectively: "Delivery Items").
- 1.2 These Conditions of Sale apply exclusively. Terms and conditions of the customer which conflict with, deviate from, or supplement these Conditions of Sale (in particular, general terms and conditions of purchase and general terms and conditions of business) shall not be accepted by IPS and shall not apply unless they are expressly approved by IPS in text form. This approval requirement applies also and in particular if IPS carries out the delivery to the customer without reservations while being aware of the customer's terms and conditions.
- 1.3 These Conditions of Sale, as in force and available at <https://www.igepa-ips.com/agb> at the time the respective purchase order is placed, also apply to all future contracts, without IPS being required to make reference to them in each particular case.
- 1.4 Any agreements supplementing, or deviating from, these Conditions of Sale which are made between IPS and the customer for the implementation of a contract must be documented in text form. This also applies to the cancellation of this text form requirement.
- 1.5 These Conditions of Sale shall not affect any statutory rights of IPS which exist in addition to, or go beyond, the rights provided for herein.

2. Formation of contract

- 2.1 All offers by IPS are subject to change and non-binding unless they are expressly stated to be binding.
- 2.2 Unless otherwise provided, no purchase orders placed in writing or by telephone shall be binding until confirmed by IPS by order confirmation issued in text form. Order confirmations that are generated using automatic devices and, therefore, do not contain a name and signature shall be deemed issued in compliance with the text form requirement. If IPS does not reply to offers, purchase orders, requests, or other notices from the customer, this shall be deemed consent only if an express agreement to this effect has been made in text form. Order confirmations shall not be binding upon IPS to the extent that they contain obvious mistakes, misspellings, or calculation errors which are relevant to the contract.

2.3 All pictures, drawings, information about weights and dimensions, DIN standards, and other descriptions of the Delivery Item from documents that form part of the offer or the order confirmation are approximations only, to the extent not expressly stated to be binding. They do not constitute an agreement on or guarantee of an according quality of the Delivery Item. The dimensions of corrugated and solid board packaging are stated in the order "length, width, and height" and describe the inner dimensions in mm, except to the extent otherwise agreed or expressly stated otherwise.

2.4 IPS reserves all ownership rights and copyrights in relation to all offer documents. Such documents shall not be made available to third parties. The preceding provisions do not affect the provisions of clause 12 below, which shall apply additionally.

3. Custom-made products

- 3.1 If IPS supplies a product according to the customer's specifications based on the purchase order and the customer's design drawings, if any, IPS will, within a first step, create a so-called approval drawing. This approval drawing will contain all design and product information relevant to IPS. IPS will send the approval drawing to the customer for approval.
- 3.2 Furthermore, IPS will create an approval and/or design sample the dimensions and functionalities of which are identical to those of the future product. IPS reserves the right with regard to its production of samples to produce series products which deviate from the samples where this is necessary for technical reasons and to use materials of a different quality for the series products. The approval and/or design sample will also be sent to the customer by IPS for approval.
- 3.3 The customer is obliged to carefully examine the approval drawing and the sample sent to it, note down the required corrections, if any, and confirm its approval by adding its signature. If printing approval is required, such approval shall again be given by the customer by adding its signature to the proof. In this case, IPS will not be liable for any errors overlooked or not reported by the customer.
- 3.4 In the event that any stereotypes, tools, or other auxiliary materials or devices for production which are necessary for the implementation of the purchase order are manufactured or ordered by IPS itself, IPS will invoice the customer for these items, charging the agreed price. The stereotypes, tools, and other auxiliary materials or devices for production shall remain the property of IPS. The customer will not acquire any right to demand the transfer of ownership or possession.
- 3.5 The cost of maintaining and servicing the stereotypes, tools, and other auxiliary materials or devices for production shall be borne by the customer. The cost of making changes to the stereotypes, tools, and other auxiliary materials or devices for production due to changes to the product and the cost of any renewals required for technical reasons shall also be borne by the customer.

- 3.6 IPS is not obliged to store the stereotypes, tools, and auxiliary materials or devices for production for a period longer than thirty (30) months after the end of the last production cycle. IPS is expressly authorised to destroy the stereotypes, tools, and auxiliary materials or devices for production upon expiry of a period of thirty (30) months following the end of the last production cycle.
- 4. Delivery, delivery dates/periods, default in delivery
- 4.1 The scope of the delivery shall be as determined in the order confirmation issued by IPS in text form. Changes to the scope of the delivery must be confirmed by IPS in text form in order to be valid.
- 4.2 Except to the extent expressly otherwise agreed in text form, delivery shall be “ex works” (EXW, as defined by Incoterms® 2020). This means that the only obligations to be performed by IPS as part of the delivery are to make the Delivery Item available at IPS’s place of business and to give notice that the delivery item is ready for collection.
- 4.3 If, unlike stipulated in clause 4.2 above, IPS assumes the obligation to ship the Delivery Item, IPS shall only be obliged to organise the transport and hand the Delivery Item over to the first carrier at IPS’s place of business. The customer must, regardless of the value of the shipped Delivery Items, bear all costs in connection with the shipment (e.g., freight, cartage, loading costs and fees, customs duties), irrespective of whether such costs are incurred domestically or abroad (also see clause 6.2 below in this regard).
- 4.4 To the extent that, unlike stipulated in clause 4.2 above, IPS assumes obligations regarding the transport of the Delivery Item (e.g., shipment according to clause 4.3 above), IPS may choose the shipping and/or transport routes and the means of shipment and/or transportation, except to the extent otherwise agreed in text form; in the event of drop-shipment, the aforesaid choice will be made by the suppliers. This does not affect the customer’s obligation to bear the costs related to the shipment and/or transport (clause 4.3 above and clause 5.2 below). Shipping and/or transport routes and means of shipment and/or transportation which lead to unusually high costs (e.g., express or fast freight, air freight) will be selected by IPS only in consultation with the customer.
- 4.5 The customer is obliged to deliver to IPS, at the customer’s own expense, all test materials which are needed to complete the Delivery Item and have to be provided by the customer no later than four weeks before the anticipated delivery date (see clause 4.6 below), even if this date is not binding.
- 4.6 Binding delivery dates or delivery periods shall be agreed in writing or in text form in the offer or the order confirmation and be expressly marked as such. If an offer or an order confirmation does not contain a delivery date or delivery period which has been marked as binding, the delivery date or delivery period mentioned therein shall be deemed to be merely a rough guide as to when to expect the receipt of the delivery.
- 4.7 The delivery period shall commence upon formation of the contract but not before all documents, permits, design details, and approvals to be procured by the customer have been provided in full, all technical issues have been clarified, and the agreed down-payment, if any, has been received. In order for the delivery period to be adhered to, the customer must perform its further obligations timely and properly.
- 4.8 Where delivery dates or delivery periods have been agreed, they shall be deemed met if the Delivery Item has been made available by the time of expiry of the delivery date or delivery period and IPS has given notice that the Delivery Item is ready for collection or, where otherwise agreed, the Delivery Item has been handed over to the first carrier. Any delivery shall be conditional upon IPS being supplied timely and properly by its own suppliers.
- 4.9 Partial services and partial deliveries shall be permitted to the extent reasonable. IPS may issue invoices for reasonable instalments.
- 4.10 If non-compliance with delivery periods is due to force majeure or other disturbances for which IPS is not responsible, e.g., war, terrorist attacks, or import and export restrictions, including any such circumstances affecting IPS’s suppliers, the agreed delivery periods shall be extended for the duration of the existence of the impediment. This also applies to any industrial action affecting IPS or IPS’s suppliers. If the impediment continues for more than sixty calendar days, the contracting parties shall have the right to rescind the contract. In such cases, claims for damages shall be excluded for lack of fault.
- 4.11 To the extent that the Delivery Item is handed over to the customer on Euro-pallets, industrial pallets, in wire cages, or on panel or board trolleys or other load carriers (hereinafter collectively: “Load Carriers”), the customer must deliver to IPS the same number of Load Carriers, which must additionally be of the same type and quality, at the place where the Delivery Item is handed over. If the customer fails to do so, IPS may charge EUR 10.00 per Load Carrier and week of delay from the third calendar day on, at maximum, however – even if returning the Load Carriers is impossible – an amount equal to the current value of the Load Carriers. Furthermore, in this case, the place of fulfilment for the obligation to return of the respective Load Carrier shall be IPS’s seat. Once the current value of the respective Load Carrier has been reached, IPS will no longer be obliged to take the respective Load Carrier back.
- 4.12 If Delivery Items which have been ordered by means of a call-off order are not called off on the agreed call-off date and/or within the agreed period of time or within a reasonable period of time fixed by IPS (hereinafter collectively: “Call-off Period”), the customer shall be in default of acceptance. Upon expiry of the call-off date or, as the case may be, the Call-off Period, the goods shall be stored at the expense and risk of the customer, regardless of any prior, deviating agreement. In all other respects, the provisions of clause 5 below shall apply. If a customer who has placed a call-off order is in default of acceptance, IPS shall be free, after setting a reasonable deadline for subsequent performance (acceptance) to no avail, to rescind the contract or demand that the entire amount of goods yet outstanding under the call-off order be accepted immediately and that the overall purchase price yet outstanding be paid immediately.

5. Default of acceptance

- 5.1 If the customer defaults on its obligation to accept delivery or violates other obligations to cooperate, IPS may demand to be compensated for any damage or loss caused by default. The liquidated damages shall be in an amount equal to 0.5% of the net price of the values delivered per day of default, at maximum, however, a total amount equal to 5% of the net price of the values delivered. This shall not affect IPS's right to assert further claims for damages, nor the customer's right to prove that the damage or loss actually suffered was smaller.
- 5.2 The risk of accidental loss or destruction or accidental deterioration of the Delivery Item shall pass to the customer at the time of commencement of the customer's default of acceptance.
- 5.3 In the event of default of acceptance, all invoices regarding the Delivery Item shall become due and payable immediately.
- 5.4 Without prejudice to the customer's rights and claims for defects, the customer shall take delivery of the Delivery Items even if they contain immaterial defects.

6. Prices

- 6.1 The price shall be as stated in the order confirmation. Except to the extent expressly otherwise agreed, the price is in EURO. The price does not include statutory value-added tax, which will be stated separately in the invoice at the statutory rate applicable on the invoice date and shall be owed by the customer additionally.
- 6.2 In the absence of a separate agreement, all prices are "ex works" (EXW, as defined by Incoterms® 2020) and exclusive of all incidental costs, such as packaging, freight, customs duties, and insurance. If IPS arranges the transport despite the general agreement on delivery "ex works" (EXW, as defined by Incoterms® 2020) in clause 4.2 above, all incidental costs incurred domestically or abroad in connection with the transport shall nevertheless be borne by the customer.
- 6.3 For call-off orders, the prices to be charged shall – in the absence of a separate agreement – always be the prices applicable on the day the respective delivery is carried out, or the prices applicable at the time acceptance is due.

7. Terms of payment

- 7.1 Except to the extent otherwise agreed in text form, the gross price plus the cost of packaging, freight, and insurance, where applicable, shall be paid within fourteen calendar days of the invoice date without any deduction (hereinafter: "Time Allowed for Payment"). The deduction of a discount must be agreed in text form.

- 7.2 Payments shall be deemed made when IPS can dispose of the amount at its place of business. In the event that IPS accepts non-cash means of payment, the obligation to pay shall not be deemed fulfilled until the amount owed has been credited unconditionally to the relevant bank account and/or can be disposed of.
- 7.3 If the Time Allowed for Payment is exceeded, IPS may – without being required to issue a reminder first – demand default interest at a rate of nine percentage points p.a. above the base rate published by the German central bank (Bundesbank) from time to time. This shall not affect IPS's right to assert further claims for damages, nor the customer's right to prove that the damage or loss actually suffered was smaller.
- 7.4 In the event that the customer defaults on a payment, IPS may demand that all claims resulting from the business relationship which are due and not subject to any defences be paid immediately in cash.
- 7.5 Counterclaims of the customer shall not entitle the customer to make a set-off or assert a right of retention unless they have been established in a judgment which cannot be appealed against or are undisputed. The customer may assert a right of retention only if its counterclaim is based on the same contractual relationship.
- 7.6 IPS shall have the right to carry out outstanding deliveries, or provide outstanding services, only against payment in advance, or against the provision of security, if any circumstances become known after the formation of the contract which are apt to significantly reduce the customer's creditworthiness and as a result of which payment by the customer of IPS's outstanding claims arising out of the respective contractual relationship is at risk. This shall apply accordingly if the customer refuses and/or fails to pay outstanding claims of IPS without there being any undisputed objections to IPS's claims, or without there being any objections which have been established in a judgment that cannot be appealed against.
- 7.7 If the customer is not based in Germany, IPS may demand payment by confirmed, irrevocable documentary credit granted – at IPS's choice – by a German bank/savings bank in favour of, and at no cost to, IPS under which IPS has the right to deliver the Delivery Items in partial shipments and where the first third (1/3) becomes due on first demand, against acknowledgement of receipt, immediately after the letter of credit has been opened and the remaining two thirds (2/3) become due upon presentation of the documents.

8. Obligation to give notice of defects

- 8.1 In order for the customer to have any rights in respect of defects, the customer must perform its statutory obligations to examine and give notice of defects (§§ 377, 381 German Commercial Code); in particular, the customer must check

- the Delivery Item upon receipt or prior to acceptance and provide IPS with written notice of all obvious defects, as well as of all defects that could be identified during such examination, without delay upon receipt of the Delivery Item. Hidden defects must be reported to IPS by the customer in writing without delay after they have been discovered.
- 8.2 If printed Delivery Items are to be supplied, the customer is obliged to carefully check the artworks or design templates submitted to it, note down the required corrections, if any, and confirm its printing approval by adding its signature. In this case, IPS will not be liable for any errors overlooked or not reported by the customer.
- 8.3 If the customer fails to carry out a proper examination and/or to give notice of defects, IPS's liability for the defect shall be excluded. When notifying IPS of defects, the customer shall provide a description of the defects in text form.
- 9. Claims for defects, deviations in quantity, damages, limitation
- 9.1 Claims for repair or for delivery of a new Delivery Item that is free of defects (repair and replacement delivery hereinafter collectively: "Subsequent Performance") shall be excluded for insignificant deviations, deviations which cannot be avoided technically, and deviations that are customary in trade, in particular, deviations regarding the composition of the material, sizing, colour, smoothness, purity, thickness, dimensions, and weight of the Delivery Item, especially fluctuations in weight of up to 10% in either direction or deviations in the dimensions of up to 3 mm in either direction.
- 9.2 Deviations in quantity, weight, or dimensions shall additionally be permitted within the tolerances customary in the industry. This shall apply accordingly to the tolerances customary in the industry for the respective Delivery Item. IPS reserves the right to deliver quantities larger or smaller than those ordered, especially for production-related technical reasons, to the extent reasonable, the permitted deviation being 20% for up to 500 pieces, 15% for up to 3,000 pieces, and 10% for more than 3,000 pieces. Excess or short deliveries of the aforesaid scope shall not constitute a defect. In such cases, the goods actually supplied shall be paid for. If partial deliveries are made, the excess or short deliveries may be distributed over the single deliveries.
- 9.3 If the customer identifies any defects in the Delivery Item, the customer may not dispose of the Delivery Item – i.e., the Delivery Item must not be divided, sold, processed, mixed, or combined – until an agreement has been reached regarding how to handle the complaint and/or until an expert appointed by the chamber of industry and commerce at the customer's seat has carried out proceedings for the preservation of evidence. The customer is additionally obliged to give IPS the opportunity to verify the existence of the reported defect on site and/or, if so requested by IPS, to make available the objected-to Delivery Item or samples thereof.
- 9.4 If the Delivery Item contains any defects, IPS may remedy the defects or, at the option of IPS, deliver a Delivery Item that is free of defects for the purposes of Subsequent Performance.
- 9.5 If the Delivery Item is not at the place of delivery, the customer shall bear all additional costs incurred by IPS in remedying the defects, unless the transfer of the Delivery Item to another place is in accordance with its contractual use.
- 9.6 Furthermore, rights in respect of defects shall not exist
- in the event of faulty assembly of the Delivery Item by the customer or third parties;
 - in the event of failure to follow the instructions for assembly;
 - if the Delivery Item is in a condition, or has suffered damage, caused after the transfer of risk by improper handling, storage, or maintenance, or by excessive strain or use;
 - if the Delivery Item is in a condition, or has suffered damage, resulting from force majeure, from specific external impacts not foreseen under the contract, or from the Delivery Item being used other than as foreseen under the contract or in a manner or for a purpose outside its customary use.
- IPS refuses to accept liability for a condition of the Delivery Item that is due to processing or to the material chosen if the customer prescribes a material not included in IPS's range of products.
- 9.7 The customer is obliged to transfer to IPS ownership of all Delivery Items and/or parts of deliveries which are replaced in connection with a warranty claim.
- 9.8 IPS has unlimited liability for damage or losses resulting from a breach of guarantee or from death, bodily injury, or damage to health. The same shall apply to wilful intent and gross negligence, mandatory statutory liability for product defects (in particular under the German Product Liability Act), and liability for fraudulent concealment of defects. In cases of simple negligence, IPS shall only be liable if material obligations which result from the nature of the contract and are of particular importance for achieving the purpose of the contract are violated. If such obligations are violated, as well as in the event of default or impossibility of performance, IPS's liability shall be limited to such damage and losses as can typically be expected under the contract. In all other cases, liability shall be excluded.
- 9.9 The limitation period for the customer's claims for defects shall be one year. This does not affect IPS's unlimited liability for damage or losses resulting from a breach of guarantee or from death, bodily injury, or damage to health, for wilful intent and gross negligence, and for product defects; in these cases, solely the statutory limitation periods shall apply.
- 9.10 The limitation period shall commence upon delivery of the Delivery Item, at the latest, however, as soon as the customer is in default of acceptance. This does not affect IPS's unlimited liability for damage or losses resulting from a breach of guarantee or from death, bodily injury, or damage to health, for wilful intent and gross negligence, and for product defects; in these - cases, solely the statutory provisions regarding the commencement of the limitation period shall apply.

- 9.11 If IPS has assumed the obligation to undertake the assembly of the Delivery Item based on an additional agreement with the customer, the warranty period shall again be one year, starting with the acceptance of the Delivery Item by the customer. If Subsequent Performance takes place as a gesture of goodwill, the limitation period shall not start anew as a result of Subsequent Performance. The limitation period additionally applies to tort claims which are based on a defect of the Delivery Item. This does not affect IPS's unlimited liability for damage or losses resulting from a breach of guarantee or from death, bodily injury, or damage to health, for wilful intent and gross negligence, and for product defects; in these cases, solely the statutory provisions regarding the limitation periods and the commencement of the limitation period shall apply.
- 9.12 To the extent that IPS's liability for damages is excluded according to clauses 9.1 to 9.11 above, this also applies with regard to the personal liability for damages of IPS's officers, employees, staff, representatives, and vicarious agents.
- 9.13 Warranty claims against IPS may only be asserted by the customer and must not be assigned.
- 9.14 The provisions of this clause 9 shall apply accordingly to defects as to title which do not consist in an infringement of third-party property rights.
- 10. Retention of title
- 10.1 IPS retains title to the Delivery Items until the purchase price, including value-added tax and any interest and incidental costs, has been paid in full.
- 10.2 If the customer purchases Delivery Items from IPS in the context of an ongoing business relationship, IPS will retain title until all claims resulting from the business relationship, including future claims and further including claims arising out of contracts entered into at the same or a later time, have been settled. This also applies if some or all of IPS's claims were included in a current account and the balance has been drawn and acknowledged.
- 10.3 If IPS becomes liable under a bill of exchange in connection with the payment of the purchase price by the customer, the retention of title shall not end before the bill of exchange has been honoured by the customer as drawee.
- 10.4 The customer shall be authorised, subject to revocation, to process the Delivery Items in the normal, proper course of business. In the event that the customer processes the Delivery Item, it is agreed that such processing shall be carried out on behalf and for the account of IPS as the manufacturer and that IPS shall be directly entitled to ownership or – where the processing involves materials of more than one owner or the value of the processed item exceeds the value of the Delivery Item – co-ownership (ownership in undivided shares) of the newly created item in proportion to the value of the Delivery Item (final amount invoiced, including value-added tax) compared to the value of the other materials and the processing value. In the event that IPS does not acquire ownership as described above, the customer hereby transfers its future ownership or – in the aforesaid proportion – co-ownership of the newly created item to IPS by way of security. IPS hereby accepts this transfer.
- 10.5 The customer shall be authorised, subject to revocation, to combine and mix the Delivery Items in the normal, proper course of business. If the Delivery Item is inseparably combined or mixed with other items not owned by IPS, IPS shall acquire co-ownership of the new item in proportion to the value of the Delivery Item (final amount invoiced, including value-added tax) compared to the other combined or mixed goods at the time of combination or mixing. If the Delivery Item is combined or mixed such that an item of the customer is to be considered the principal item, the customer and IPS hereby agree that the customer hereby transfers co-ownership of this item to IPS on a pro rata basis by way of security. IPS hereby accepts this transfer.
- 10.6 The authority to process the Delivery Items (clause 10.4 above) and the authority to combine and mix the Delivery Items (clause 10.5 above) shall be subject to the condition precedent that IPS validly acquires ownership or, where applicable, co-ownership of the items which replace the Delivery Items.
- 10.7 The Delivery Items and any items which replace the Delivery Items according to the provisions of clauses 10.4 and 10.5 above and are covered by this retention-of-title clause are hereinafter referred to as the "Retention-of-Title Goods".
- 10.8 The customer shall store the Retention-of-Title Goods free of charge on behalf of IPS – to the extent feasible and reasonable, separate from the customer's own items and marked as the (jointly owned) property of IPS.
- 10.9 The customer shall treat the Retention-of-Title Goods with care. The customer shall, at its own expense, insure the Retention-of-Title Goods adequately at their replacement value against damage by fire, water, and theft. If any maintenance and inspection work becomes necessary, the customer shall timely carry out such work at its own expense.
- 10.10 The customer shall be authorised, subject to revocation, to sell the Retention-of-Title Goods in the normal, proper course of business on the customer's normal terms and conditions. This authority to sell shall be conditional upon the customer retaining title to the Retention-of-Title Goods when selling them to its purchasers and upon the claims arising out of such sale being transferred to IPS as provided in clause 10.12 below. The customer is not authorised to dispose of the Retention-of-Title Goods in any other manner; in particular, the customer is not authorised to pledge the Retention-of-Title Goods or transfer them by way of security.
- 10.11 The authority to process the Delivery Items and the authority to sell the Retention-of-Title Goods

- (clauses 10.4 and 10.10 above) and the authority to combine and mix the Delivery Items (clause 10.5 above) may be revoked by IPS at any time if the customer fails to properly perform its obligations to IPS, in particular, if the customer defaults on a payment or does not handle the Retention-of-Title Goods in accordance with the contractual provisions (including these Conditions of Sale).
- 10.12 The customer's claims arising out of the sale of the Retention-of-Title Goods are hereby assigned to IPS. IPS accepts this assignment. The assigned claims shall serve as security to the same extent as the Retention-of-Title Goods. If the Retention-of-Title Goods are sold with other goods which have not been supplied by IPS, the claim arising out of the sale shall be assigned in proportion to the value of IPS's Retention-of-Title Goods (final amount invoiced, including value-added tax) compared to the other goods sold. In the event of a sale of goods in which IPS has co-ownership interests according to clauses 10.4 and 10.5 above, a portion which corresponds to IPS's ownership interest shall be assigned to IPS. The same applies to other claims which take the place of, or otherwise arise with regard to, the Retention-of-Title Goods, such as insurance claims or tort claims in the event of loss or destruction.
- 10.13 IPS authorises the customer, subject to revocation, to collect the claims which have been assigned to IPS in the customer's own name. This does not affect IPS's right to collect such claims itself; IPS will not, however, assert the claims itself, nor will it revoke the authority to collect, as long as the customer properly performs its contractual obligations, in particular, its obligations to pay. If, however, the customer commits a breach of contract, in particular, if the customer defaults on the payment of any consideration owed, IPS may revoke the authority to collect and demand that the customer inform IPS of the assigned claims and the respective debtors, that it notify the respective debtors of the assignment, and that it deliver and provide to IPS all records and information needed by IPS to assert the claims.
- 10.14 The collection authority granted by IPS does not generally give the customer the right to assign the claims further to third parties. The customer may, however, assign the claims by way of genuine factoring if all of the requirements set out below are fulfilled:
- IPS is informed without delay of the factoring bank;
 - IPS is informed without delay of the customer's bank accounts maintained at the factoring bank;
 - The proceeds from factoring exceed the value of IPS's secured claim.
- IPS's claim shall become due immediately upon the proceeds from factoring being credited to the relevant bank account.
- 10.15 The authority given in clauses 10.4, 10.5, 10.10, and 10.13 above to process, combine and mix the Delivery Items, sell the Retention-of-Title Goods, and collect claims shall expire without any further action being required (condition subsequent) upon the customer applying for the institution of insolvency proceedings, or upon an application to institute insolvency proceedings being filed against the customer, or upon insolvency proceedings being instituted against the customer's assets.
- 10.16 If IPS rescinds the contract in accordance with the provisions set out in clause 11.1 below (enforcement event), IPS shall have the right to inspect the Retention-of-Title Goods, demand their surrender, and sell or otherwise dispose of them as provided in clause 11 below.
- 10.17 At the request of the customer, IPS will be obliged to release the security to which IPS is entitled to the extent that – taking into account the downward value adjustments customarily applied in the banking industry – the realisable value of such security exceeds IPS's claims arising out of the business relationship with the customer by more than 10%. IPS will be responsible for selecting the security to be released.
- 10.18 In the event of an attachment of the Retention-of-Title Goods or other interferences by third parties, the customer must point out IPS's ownership and notify IPS without delay in writing so as to enable IPS to enforce its ownership rights. The customer shall use its best endeavours to assist IPS free of charge with the enforcement of IPS's ownership rights; in particular, the customer shall provide all necessary records and issue all declarations. If the third party is unable to reimburse IPS for the judicial or extra-judicial costs incurred in this connection, the customer shall be liable for these costs.
- 10.19 In the event that the goods are delivered to countries with a different legal system where the retention-of-title provisions set out in clauses 10.1 to 10.15 above do not provide the same degree of security as in the Federal Republic of Germany, the customer hereby grants IPS a corresponding security interest. If this requires further steps to be taken, the customer shall do whatever is necessary to grant IPS such a security interest without delay. The customer shall assist with all measures that are necessary and useful for the validity and enforceability of such security interests.
- 11. Rescission
- 11.1 If the customer commits a breach of contract, in particular, if the customer defaults on a payment, IPS may, without prejudice to any other contractual or statutory rights, rescind the contract upon expiry of a reasonable additional period of time set for performance.
- 11.2 IPS may rescind the contract without setting an additional period of time for performance if the customer ceases to make payments or applies for the institution of insolvency proceedings or of similar debt settlement proceedings against its assets.
- 11.3 After notice of rescission has been given, the customer shall, without delay, grant IPS or IPS's agents access to the items to which title has been retained and surrender these items. After giving sufficient advance notice to this effect, IPS shall have the right to sell the items to which title has been retained elsewhere, or dispose otherwise of them, with a view to achieving the settlement of its claims due from the customer. The proceeds from such sale or other disposition shall – upon deduction of reasonable sales or disposition costs – be credited against the customer's liabilities.

11.4 The provisions of this clause 11 shall not restrict any statutory rights or claims.

12. Confidentiality

12.1 The customer is obliged to maintain the confidentiality of all information to which the customer gains access via IPS and which is designated as confidential or can be identified as a trade or business secret based on other circumstances for an unlimited period of time and to desist from recording, disclosing, or otherwise exploiting any such information.

12.2 The customer shall make suitable contractual agreements with the employees and agents working for it to ensure that they, too, desist for an unlimited period of time from any exploitation, disclosure, or unauthorised recording of such trade and business secrets.

12.3 The obligation to maintain confidentiality does not apply to information which is demonstrably already lawfully known to the customer or which demonstrably becomes known to the customer outside the contract without violation of any obligation of confidentiality. A disclosure of trade or business secrets of IPS which is demonstrably required for the fulfilment of statutory obligations shall be permitted; in such case, the customer must inform IPS without delay in text form of the impending disclosure or, where applicable, of the disclosure made.

13. Data Protection

13.1 The processing of personal data (hereinafter "Data") by IPS shall be carried out in accordance with the applicable data protection laws, in particular, the General Data Protection Regulation (hereinafter "GDPR"). IPS Lamersdorf GmbH, Schwarzer Weg 95, 52459 Inden-Lamersdorf, telephone: 02465 9900 0; email: datenschutz@igepa-ips.com, is controller of the data processing within the meaning of the GDPR.
